MONDAY MORNING, JANUARY 17, 1859. INTERESTING DESCRIPTION OF TRAVEL

LING IN THE "FAR WEST." One portion of the United States and Canada. lying in, and North of Michigan, called Jan. the "Upper Peninsula," is entirly shut out from the rest of the world during the winter months. The Detroit Advertiser gives an interesting description of the mode of travelling during that period: The mails are carried by Indians and half breeds, when the travelling is good, on their backs, and when it is bad, by dog trains.

The snow falls to a depth of from two to five or six feet. The snow-shoes used by the men are about eight or ten inches in width, and from two and a half to four and a half feet in length. They are flat, and are made of bow maple wood, round at the toe and Apr coming to a point at the heel, where the ends are fastened by thongs of raw deer skin .-The space is filled by a lace-work of raw tion of a small space immediately in front of May 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 a cross-piece of wood, upon which the ball of the foot rests. The shoes used by women are smaller than those used by the men, and of a different shape. The feet of the person Jun using the shoes are encased in mocassins of buckskin sufficiently large to admit three or four thicknesses of blanket. The blanket is used not only to keep the feet warm, but also to prevent the toes from being chafed by the strings of buckskin which are passed over them, and by which the shoes are fastened to the feet.

The dog trains used are made of a flat board about half an inch in thickness, ten inches in width, and from six to ten and twelve feet in length and are turned up in front. At each side of the train a rope is fastened, running the whole length of it, and a "train cloth" of canvass is used, considera- tion of the Justices for each term during the bly larger than the train. The articles to year 1859, as follows:be carried are laced on the cloth, from one end of the train to the other. The cloth is then wrapped over them, and placed up by means of a string passing under the ropes at

For a tramp, the edibles carried are, usually-some flour, pilot bread, salt pork, tea ham, H. W. Febrey, John Summers, and Wm. B. and sugar, and cooking utensils, a tin kettle and a frying pan. The food for the dogs is generally tallow and corn meal. The bedclothes are, a single blanket to each man .-Indians or half breeds are employed as guides and assistants during a tramp. Imagine a white man and an Indian about starting on a "tramp" of three or four hundred miles, through a forest unfrequented by all living beings except wild birds and animals. The provisions are packed upon the train, the dogs are harnessed to it, one ahead of the other, to the number of four or five .-The Indian takes the lead, with his snow Harper. shoes, the dogs follow with the train, and the William H. Fowle, Noah Drummond, and John "pale face" brings up the rear, with yells to the dogs in front of him. Tramp, tramp, tramp, until noon, when a halt is made; the train is unpacked, the kettle, tea and sugar are produced, a fire lighted, and after taking a cup of tea, the word is given and again the tramp commences. The party makes another halt in time to prepare the camping ground before the night sets in. The dogs are left standing in their harness, the Indian takes the axe and cuts enough fuel to last until morning, the white man uses a snow shoe for a shovel and clears away the snow until the ground is reached. A shelter is then built over the cleared space, of poles covered with ever-green boughs. The front of the "wigwarm" is left open, and the ground covered with hemlock boughs. Immediately opposite the front, a rousing log fire is built, the dogs unharnessed, and the supper prepared. The supper is composed of a cup of tea, some pork cooked in the frying pan, and some flour cooked in the fat left from the pork. After supper the pipe and tobacco are produced, and the white man smokes in the front of the fire, while the Indian cooks the supper of corn and tallow for the dogs in the same kettle in which the tea had been but a few minutes before. After being satisfied with his "smoke," the pale face and Indian wrap their ing and sleeping by day.

The veteran Indian "snow-sheer' will never drink water, or eat snow, during the time he is on his journey, as he says it makes him "very much weak." The Indians and half-breeds, on coming in from a long journey, on their arrival at their place of destination, will, if night is near and a dance is in prospect, stay about until the ball begins. go to it, and dance until daylight. We have known of parties of young men putting on their snow-shoes on Christmas morning, walking thirty miles to a ball, dancing all night, and then walking a distance of twelve miles to breakfast.

blankets around them, and lie down side by side on the hemlock bough, with their feet to the fire and sleep as sweetly and as soundly as "e'er did king upon the richest damask.

In the morning, before day, the Indian prepares the breakfast, which is eaten, and the travellers again move on. The dogs are fed but once a day and the reason is, they travel much better. A distance of thirty miles per day is travelled with ease by those accutomed to the use of snow shoes. When toward Spring the days become longer and the sun hotter the travelling is done at night, and the rest-

We have in our mind one of the most wonderful feats of pedestrianism, which, if it were not well substantiated, would be difficult of belief. It took place a number of years ago. Mr. Schoolcraft, residing at Sault St. Marie, wished to send an express to Mackinac, distant by the trail about seventy-five miles .-He sent for a half breed called La Branch. and told him that he must go to the Mackinac. and that he must start at 12 o'clock, M., that day. La Branch objected, as there was to be a ball in the evening of the next day .-Schoolcraft told him that he must go, and that as he wanted to attend the ball, if he was back from Mackinac by 10 o'clock the next evening, he would give him twenty dol-lars extra pay. At 12 o'clock he started, and the next day at 10 P. M., appeared again, having gone the whole distance-150 milesin 34 hours. After receiving the promised twenty dollars, he said "he could have been in by 80 clock, but he waited two hours on the hill back of the town, for fear that he might get in ahead of time, and lose his money!"— After leaving Mr. Schoolcraft's store, La Branch went to the ball, and tripped the moccasined toe until daylight.

CAPITAL OVER $250,000, AND CONSTANTLY INCREASING. The Charter of this Company offers more tayora ble advantages to the farmer and others, than an other Company chartered in the State, by insuring with or without a premium note. If the applicant prefer, he can pay the full amount of the premium in cash, or by effecting a cash insurance for two years, the insured saves one-eighth of the amount he would otherwise have to pay; or by becoming a member, and giving a small premium note, the in sured saves nearly one-half of the amount charge. by Stock Companies, when insuring from year year. This is the advantage resulting from the combination of THE CASH AND MUTUAL

PRINCIPLE. This Company commenced issuing Policie against loss or damage by fire, on the 16th of March, 1854, since which time over five thousand seven hundred persons have insured and become members of the Company, and over thirty thou sand dollars have been paid for losses. Having trebled our business during the past year, we feel grateful for the liberal patronage bestowed upon the Company thus far, and for its flattering propects of future usefulness. The Directors and believe, that, by prudence, caution, and a rigis system of economy, they will establish for this Company a reputation for cheapness and safety not surpassed by any Company in the U. States. All differences in settlement of losses, may be determined by three disinterested arbitrators of the County where such loss happened, to be mutually chosen by the insured and the Company. DIRECTORS: | Christopher Ngale, H. W. Thomas. R. F. Lester, R. H. Stabler. Sholto T. Stuart. P. D. Lipscomb, W. M. Turner, T. B. Robertson, W. D. Massey, W. T.
